About Plays and Players By BIDE DUDLEY

EORGE TALLIS, senior manag-ing director of J. C. William-son, Limited, of Australia, who is in New York, is finding an appelling dearth of good plays, according to bis way of thinking.

"Australia has to look to New York and London for its plays," he said, "and we always, got the cream from each city. I am here to get some now, but, while I have seen numerous now, but, while I have seen numerous Broadway productions, only three or four will do for Australia. Our people are used to the best and the other kinds won't go at home. We have no successful playwrights to speak of in our country. I am to remain in New York a month. Perhaps, before I leave, I will have found enough good plays to fill out our season."

Mr. Tallis has engaged Adams and Waters to play the Abe and Mawruss roles in "Business Bufere Phasure" and to appear in "The High Cost of Loving" in Australia.

PLUNKETT ISN'T DEAD.

PLUNKETT ISN'T DEAD.

Joe Plunkett, well-known in theatrical circles and at present identified with the Klever Komedy Film concern, which makes Victor Moore pictures, wishes to deay a widely circulated report that he is dead. The rumor said Joe had killed himself.

"I don't know how the report got started," he said to us last night,
"but it is absurd. Now, have a chair and I'll tell you how good these Victor Moore films are. Say, would you beliave it, they are the higgest drawing card that ever—"

At that point we decided he wasn't dead and left.

BOBBIE WRITES A LETTER.

Robert Anstett, formerly a stage band known as Bobble Props, now in the hospital service in France, writes us to say that some of the boys over there fixed up a musical comedy called "The Camouffage" and made a big hit with it. Soldiers, some of them direct from the trenches, were made up as chorus girls and Bobby writes they were great. Besides this, he declares the boys want real stage entertainers ands real plays, over there.

there.
"Send us George M. Cohan," he writes. "We gotta have him. The United Booking Offices have no better time to offer than the Y. M. C. A. huts. Sherman was wrong. War is just what you make it."

SHERRY EXTENDS SERVICE.

William L. Sherry, who has formed a film distributing company known as the William L. Sherry Service, has arranged with Theodore C. Deitrich to distribute all the Doris Kenyon pletures. These films are made by Mias Kenyon's own company, the De Luxe, of which Mr. Dietrich is the President. Mr. Sherry will distribute, also, all the Frank Keegan films.

BY WAY OF DIVERSION.

By WAY OF DIVERSION.

Tou never see 'em nowadays the boys with home-cut hair. 'Twas diff'rent thirty years ago: we saw 'em ev'rywhere. In those old days the barber shops were meant for just the men. To have a barber work on boys was hardly thought of then. You recollect how father used to sit you on a stool, an apron hangin' from your neck, ma's scissors as the tool! Remember how, upon your head, he placed the sugar bowl, while round the edges, snip by snip, the scissors defly stole? In thirty years, it seems to me, this world has changed a heap. To-day, if dad cut Willie's hair they'd set him down as cheap. Sut could I so back in the years a stool I'd gladly take an' let dad use the bowl an' all Just once for old times' sake.
